POST PANDEMIC LOCAL GOVERNEMENT TRENDS

LABOR MARKET

Unemployment rate fell to its lowest level since 1969 with 3.4% (nationally), but public sector jobs are still below their employment levels from before the pandemic. State and local government has not made the same recovery as private sector employers.

In September 2022, state and local government hired only 0.31 people for every opening, less than almost every other industry.

State and local government may also be more likely to require higher education than the private sector, which can act as a formal barrier to entry.

60.3% of state and local government workers are women.

POST PANDEMIC LOCAL GOVERNEMENT TRENDS

MULTI GENERATIONAL WORKFORCE

Retirements are increasing and 53% surveyed report that employees are accelerating their retirement plans.

27.8% of state and local government workforce is over the age of 55.

Millennial & Gen Z generations are driven by purpose and want to make a positive impact on their communities.

Millennials ranked career advancement & professional training high on the list of attractors to apply for jobs.

SEPARATIONS

More voluntary quits were recorded in 2022 compared to 2020.

ATTRACTING TALENT

We are selling our organization. We are no longer asking the questions:
